Welcome From The LU Alumni President

Dear Alumni, Former Students, and Friends:

Once again, Homecoming at our Alma Mater is very near. Once again, we shall stand and sing her praises: "High on a throne with royal mien, where our hope and our mother stand". Once again, if you have not done so, we urge you to join with hundreds of alumni in paying your alumni dues and playing an active part in the Association.

We have made great strides in our association and have set some ambitious goals:

1. The position of Acting Executive Secretary has been created.
2. An adequate alumni record and mailing system is being developed.

3. An annual contribution of one thousand dollars has been pledged to the Langston University Development Foundation.

4. A state-wide Alumni Dance is also being planned.

The above goals are in addition to the following already established Homecoming commitments:

1. Tuition scholarships to three deserving Langston Students.
2. Three trophies to be given to prize-winning floats in the Homecoming Parade.
3. After-midnight dinner for alumni.
4. Breakfast Dance.

With the expansion of our alumni program, we need the support of every alumnus. Therefore, we are asking you to become a financial member of the Association by paying your alumni dues ($5.00) to your area membership chairman or by mailing your check, money order, or bank draft directly to Clifford D. Wallace, Acting Executive Secretary, Langston University Alumni Association, Langston, Oklahoma.

See your Homecoming!

Yours for a better LU,
James Roy Johnson

WELCOME FRIENDS OF
LANGSTON UNIVERSITY

Our accomplishments in the past are many.

The future holds even greater promise.

9 out of 10 people are satisfied to wait for success.

Johnson & Johnson wants that 10th person.

Our growth is too rapid, our needs are too demanding for people who stand around and let "nature take its course"

We want impatient, restless, alert, ambitious people who look on challenge as an opportunity... who thrive on added responsibility, who want to hit management level by the time they're 30.

If you think this is blue-sky promise, consider this fact: our present management age level at Sherman, Texas is—you guessed it—30. While you're moving your way to the top, you'll be getting a top salary and benefits too important to be called fringe.

Interested? We have key openings right now for HIGH SPEED MACHINERY DEVELOPMENT ENGINEERS and MAINTENANCE ENGINEERING SUPERVISORS for the design and development of high speed machinery and the maintenance of related equipment. Other openings also exist in manufacturing, systems purchasing and finance. (Please remember, these are starting assignments. You'll go as fast and far as you want!)

Music Faculty Schedules Recitals

The Music Faculty has begun a series of concerts which will continue throughout this academic year. The concerts are in the form of solo lectures and chamber music recitals. There are three objectives for this series of performances. First, we feel a need to aid in lifting the cultural level of the junior high and high school students of the State of Oklahoma. A few concerts will be performed out of state. Secondly, we think that this is an excellent means of informing the public about the Langston University Music Faculty and specifically about the competency of each faculty member in his special area. The third reason for these concerts is that of recruitment. Each concert is followed by a recruiting session of about thirty minutes. In this meeting of students enrolled in music organizations, specific information regarding the institution and the Music Department are discussed in detail.

On Thursday, October 5, members of the faculty gave a solo concert at the Booker T. Washington High School of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Music Faculty was elated at the response and reception it received on the part of both student and staff of Washington High School.

The following program was presented:

Allegro con Brio, Opus 2 No. 3 Beethoven
Feux d'artifice (fireworks) Debussy
Mr. Robert Green, Pianist
Concerto for Clarinet in Bb, Opus 107 Mozart
Allegro
Adagio
Solo De Concours A. Messenger
Dr. Chelsea Tipton, Clarinetist

Any community who desire artistic performances by members of this Music Faculty may receive information directly through the Department of Music.

The Langston Lions will have to stop the "shotgun" spread offense of Northeastern State in their homecoming battle Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

Veteran LU Coach T. M. Crisp said that the Redmen from Northeastern threw 31 passes from the "shotgun" formation in their game last week and had a "high" percentage of completions.

"But we're hoping our defense will prevail", Crisp said, "and I believe they can do it. It will be a tough game as all squad members are in shape to see action."

Connie Sledge, Lion Quarterback, has been slowed some due to an injury but is expected to see a lot of action Saturday. Sledge has been throwing the ball well this year and has two fine receivers in Eugene Howard and Nathaniel Fowler. The Lion passing attack leads the conference this year. Odell Lawson has also been providing some strong running to mix the Lion attack.

Defense has been the "strong suit" of the Lion team with Richard Green providing the spark-plug at his defensive safety slot. Green is also an outstanding quarterback and took over the quarterbacking spot in the East Central game while Sledge was out with an injury.

The Lions stand 2-1 in conference play this year. Coach Crisp said that the record this year shows an improvement over the 5-4 season mark last year.

"We hope to have a much better season this year. Our offense has been clicking lately and our defense is coming on strong", Crisp said.

The Lion coaching staff is headed by veteran coach T. M. Crisp who is also athletic director at the University. His football assistants are Bernard Crowell, Backfield coach and scout Raymond Johnson, defensive line coach; Glenn Gibson, offensive line coach; E. M. (Nat) Watson, Defensive backfield coach. Charles Clark is the Lion trainer and Jerry Wilson, statistician.

Outstanding freshmen on the Lion roster includes June Roy Spivey, allstate tackle from Oklahoma City Central; Lewis Everly, Oklahoma City Central along with two fine ends in Nathaniel Fowler, Oklahoma City Douglass, and Lewis Everly from Oklahoma City Central.

NEW — FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million in college scholarships went unclaimed — because no qualified persons applied . . . because no qualified persons knew of them. • Now EGS engineers and educators have programmed a high-speed computer with 700,000 items of scholastic aid, worth over $500 million, to permit students to easily and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify. • The student fills out a detailed, confidential questionnaire and returns it to ECS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $15. In seconds the computer compares his qualifications against requirements of grants set up by foundations, business, civic, fraternal, religious, and government organizations, and prints a personalized report to the student telling him where and when to apply for grants for which he qualifies. Thousands of these do not depend on scholastic standing or financial need.

Student Group Calls For More Decision Making

The Oklahoma Intercollegiate Student Association annual leadership conference last weekend called for more student participation in the decision-making process of higher education.

The OISA, a federation of student associations throughout the state, held the annual meeting at Southeastern State College at Durant.

The group's executive officers reported on work being done to establish an advisory board to the Oklahoma Regents for Higher Education.

Randall Palmer, OISA president, Langston University, said the board would be composed of students from campuses around the state and meet with the regents periodically.

Palmer said he and Roger Ward, his assistant for political affairs and an OSU graduate student, met recently with Dr. E. T. Dunlap, chancellor of the state regents, and discussed the powers and duties of the various boards of regents for Oklahoma colleges and universities.

Ward said Dunlap was "very helpful" with plans for the advisory board. He said the OISA executive officers scheduled another meeting with Dunlap Oct. 18.

The OISA officers also reported they were exploring possibilities of establishment of a joint booking for big name entertainment acts for Oklahoma schools.

University Has Data Processing

Langston University has begun a new two-year data processing project for small business management this fall, under the 1968 State Technical Services Program, according to Dr. George S. Abshier, director of the community and industry programs at Oklahoma State University.

The project is to acquaint small business owners and operators with uses of data processing equipment for management of accounting, sales, personnel and other records.

The long-time goal of this project is to establish a computer center and to offer its services to Logan County business, commercial, and industrial firms.

Dean William Sims, of Langston University, has responsibility for the project.

Courses in the new project will be offered at night for the convenience of persons in commerce, business and industry from Guthrie, Coyle, Langston, and Crescent. Participants will learn ways to improve records management.

Langston Has "Lost In The Stars" Presentation

The Kaleidoscope Players, often called the "vagabond of the theatre world", was featured at Langston University Monday evening at eight o'clock in the I. W. Young Auditorium in their touring show, "Lost in the Stars".

A company of 10 singers and actors presented the Maxwell Anderson, Kurt Weill musical drama in a newly staged, stylized concert version. With a stage setting and lighting effects by Ben Zeller, and colorful costumes by Chatoyant, the show was innovative in its staging and design. The on-stage accompaniment was by Leslie Adams, who is also musical director for the production. Bill Fegan, founder and managing director of the Kaleidoscope Players, directed the entire show.

Based on the novel "Cry, the Beloved Country" by Alan Paton, the story concerns itself with the search by a South African minister, for his wayward son. His relentless searching and his confrontations with both Negro and white officials, and the disappointments that follow, made up one of the most alive, moving, and beautiful of all American musical works.

Levern Hutcherson, the original "Joe" in Carmen Jones, was featured in the leading role of the old minister. Lucia Hawkins who just recently returned from a solo tour of Europe played the female leading role of Irma.

Bringing named performing artists to the University campus is an act of the administration to expose Langston University students to top-quality entertainment.
